

International Promulgation

Advanced Trauma Life Support Program for Health Care Professionals

International promulgation of the American College of Surgeons (ACS) Advanced Trauma Life Support (ATLS) Program for health care professionals is defined as, “The development of the ACS ATLS Program within the requesting country via a recognized Surgical/medical organization or ACS Chapter in that country for all health care professionals within the requesting country who wish to participate regardless of their race, creed, sex, color, or professional discipline.”

This document

